CLAIM CONTRACTS BROKEN

Failure of Contractor to Accept Sand Basis of $3,742 Suit.

Judgment for $3,742 was asked in superior court yesterday by L. Lewther and C. L. Hidder against the Standard Paving company, the plaintiff alleging the contract entered into between the parties was breached by the defendant without cause.

Lewther and Hidder, according to the plaintiff, agreed to haul 25 yards of sand for every 100 feet of roadway under construction by the defendant company from the Jenkins bridge northward for three miles.

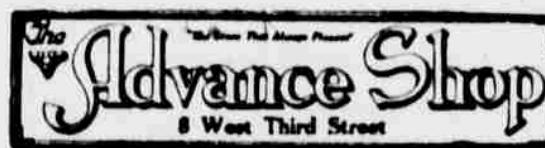

During the coming week arrangements will be made to have a meeting of every organization in the city. Prominent business men of the city who are behind the movement will explain all of the details of the plan to the members of the Rotary, City, Kiwanis, Lions, Advertising and Automobile clubs, and also the real estate exchange, at their meetings next week.

President of all of the organizations voted their approval of the plans of the exposition corporation and gave their personal endorsement to the proposition. All expressed the belief that the members of the club would get behind the movement when they were familiarized with the plan of the corporation.

Clarence H. Douglas, managing director of the chamber of commerce, presided at the meeting yesterday.

Bendix Theft of Woman's Coat.

May Lansbury, charged with the larceny of a velvet coat, valued at $60, the property of Anna M. Sturdevant, 538 North Main street, entered a plea of not guilty at her arraignment yesterday before Justice S. C. Maxey and was released on bond of $500 pending preliminary hearing next Friday. The coat which the defendant claims she bought from a peddler was found in a trunk at her home, 212 North Elwood avenue, by county officers who searched the room under authority of a search warrant.

PLEADS GUILTY TO ROBBERY

Nowata Youth Arrested in Possession of Decoy Letter Confesses.

Pleading guilty to the charge of larceny of postal matter, Ivan Hard, a youth whose home is in Nowata, was committed to jail yesterday for a term of 11 days for the offense by the federal grand jury at his arraignment before J. H. Wilkins, United States commissioner.

A number of letters had disappeared from postoffice boxes in Nowata and O. C. Pierce, local post-office inspector, suspending Hard, placed decoy letters in a number of boxes. Hard, by some means unknown to him, found and opened one of the postoffice boxes and extracted a decoy letter, which was found in his pocket at the time of his arrest.

Wegworth escaped from the custody of Henry Lowery, deputy United States marshal, Bartlesville, while in his custody and a chief constable and his officers and a small posse of citizens chased him from the postoffice building to a house near town hall, where he was found hidden under a bed in a house into
